

TICK SAFETY TALK

Thursday,
October 22
@4pm

This program will cover best safety practices and resources to keep you informed throughout the year.

Presenters:

Caroline DeFillipo, MD MPH

Caroline DeFilippo, MD, MPH, is a Westchester internal medicine physician practicing concierge medicine with White Plains Hospital. A Harvard graduate who previously conducted tick research, she focuses on the connection between the environment and human health. She lives in Bedford with her husband and three children.

Thomas Daniels, Ph.D, Director, Louis Calder Center

Dr. Daniels is Director of Fordham's Louis Calder Center and Co-Director of the Vector Ecology Lab. His research focuses on the ecology and control of disease-transmitting ticks and mosquitoes in the Hudson Valley. Passionate about education, he mentors students through hands-on field experience and introductory biology.
